BRONCHITIS

may mean a mere cold or a chronic incurable inflammation of wind-pipes.

The quickest relief, for a cold, is also the most effectual balm for the worst condition of wind-pipes and lungs.

It takes the edge off a cold in a night, and relieves it progressively—one forgets it after a little.

An old bronchitis, however, is obstinate. Nothing restores the tissues, when once destroyed; and an old bronchitis has gradually impaired and partly destroyed the lining of those small pipes between throat and lungs.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is the balm; it soothes it and cannot restore.

Will send you a little to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

KING MAURICE TOBIN IS SHOT AT BY AN HAWAIIAN WOMAN

Island Village on the Midway Thrown Into an Uproar—Considerable Mystery in the Affair—The Police Act.

THE Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier of August 9th has the following:

The 11 o'clock home-bound crowd was just pouring through the north Midway last night, when two shots rang out from a narrow passageway, running between the House-Upper-Down and the Hawaiian Village. It is the exit from the latter concession.

There is considerable mystery connected with the affair, but Capt. Valley, chief of the detective bureau of the Pan-American Exposition, said last night that as nearly as he could ascertain, a Hawaiian woman had tried to kill Maurice Tobin, the manager of the place, by firing at him from a concealed place in the passageway, as he came down stairs. It is believed that several people in the village are involved in the matter, and the management is making every effort to shield them.

The villagers were giving a performance in the theater at the time, and as soon as it was learned what had happened, the entire place was darkened by the native manager, and all the people took their departure. Up till a late hour last night few had returned. The police say they believe that two or more of them connived with the woman, whose name is said to be Aala Puamikinolia, which means "Sweet Magnolia in Hilo."

Tobin was badly disturbed, and could tell little that was coherent. He says that the woman came from Honolulu here on her own responsibility. She was a dancing girl in Honolulu, and managed the business affairs of other dancers. When the company was being aggregated he engaged her, signing a contract. About six months later he discovered her in some dishonest transactions and she forced him, in order to get the other girls, to transfer to her the $400 which had been deposited with the Hawaiian Territorial Government to insure their passage money home.

She came into possession of this money two months ago. When she started for Buffalo is not known, but she arrived at the village on Tuesday night, and made a scene in the front of the place. Tobin says he was compelled to eject her from the building, and after refusing her employment with the troupe. She has two cousins, a man and a woman in the company, and he says that he thinks they sneaked her in later in the night by a little gateway which opens out into a long passageway running into the other end of the Midway.

After the last bally-hoo he went up to his room to get a cigar, and coming down the stairs outside the building, he noticed someone in the shadow of the passageway below. Suddenly he heard a click, and then the two shots. The bullets buried themselves in the wall beside him.

Just here his story grows dim. He

LABEL SUIT BETWEEN PREACHERS.

An interesting suit for damages in the amount of $25,000 has been entered in York county, Pa., by the Rev. Jacob Kurtz against the Rev. Jacob Aldinger. The immediate cause was the declaration by the latter that the former did not have the holy spirit and was nothing but a crank. Mr. Aldinger does not does not know just what he did, but says he saw the woman, Puamikinolia, run past him. He says she wore a black skirt, a pink shirtwaist and a sailor hat. She ran in the direction of the theater. The crowd from the street, including a half-dozen policemen, poured in, and the entire village was in an uproar, when suddenly the lights went out, having been turned out by the native manager. When they were on again, the back door was found open, and the doorkeeper said the woman had gone out that way.

About an hour afterward the police found that William Mason, of "A Trip to the Moon," had found the revolver and concealed it. It was found in his possession.

The gun was a 38-calibre, of poor make, and was an old arm. The chambers had been loaded and two had been discharged.

Capt. Valley said there had been an attempt to discharge a third cartridge, but the hammer had caught.

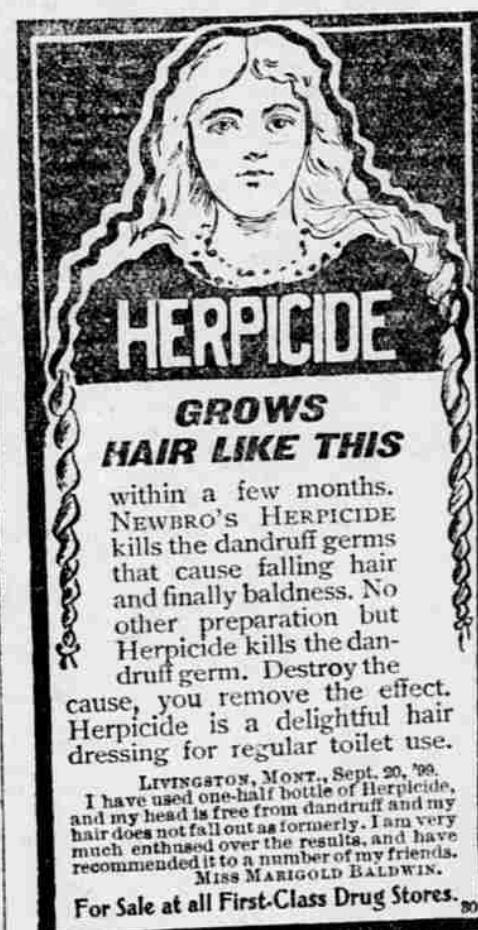

The employees of a House-Upper-Down, hearing the shots, ran to the windows and saw the woman just entering the back of the theater.

Capt. Valley and Detective M. J. Morrissey took charge of the case, and went over the ground thoroughly. The Hawaiians scattered to all parts of the grounds, and the inner workings of the story are not apt to come out till the detectives have sifted them thoroughly.

Capt. Valley said last night:

"There is more to this case than appears on the surface. Tobin told me five weeks ago that he had received a letter which made him a little shaky about trouble coming to him from his people. I told him to keep a bold front and a keen eye. The woman must have stayed all night in Buffalo the night before, and she must be in Buffalo tonight. If her friends in the company know where she is we will get her. We may also unravel an interesting yarn."

deny that he said these things, and the Rev. John E. Royer, in whose library the controversy took place, and who does not seem to be at all friendly to Mr. Kurtz, says he will vouch for the truth of the statement made by Mr. Aldinger. These are all ministers in the old order German Baptist church, and the trouble has grown out of differences which existed for some time between the principals.
